Part-time academic vacancy in the field of “Psychology of Sexuality”

Start date: 01/09/2022

Vacancy reference: FPLSE-211215-02

Description of the course load
A part-time (10%), indivisible, position in the field of the Psychology of Sexuality, within the Department of Psychology. This post includes teaching, research and services to the Community.

Teaching activities
Teaching activities include the following courses:

- PSY1101- Psychology of sexuality (20h Th and 10h Pr)

In addition to the above mentioned course, the workload involves the supervision of final dissertations.

The candidate must demonstrate that they have sufficient practical experience in the field of the psychology of sexuality to take on the teaching load. Experience in the multidisciplinary management of sexual dysfunction would be an asset. A presentation of the teaching objectives of the candidate's course should be attached to the application (maximum half a page). Candidates must demonstrate that their teaching and clinical practice will adopt an “evidence-based” approach.

Research Activities
The successful applicant will have to develop a research programme in line with the teaching load (see below under “Qualifications Required / Profile”).

Services to the Community
The candidate must show that they are involved in the voluntary sector (professional associations) in the field of sexology and that they have already assumed responsibilities within these professional associations.

Qualifications required / profile
The candidate should hold a PhD in psychology.

They will be required to show through their research activities:

- publications in international or national peer-reviewed scientific journals (at least three publications, as lead author, in a journal referenced by ISI, Scopus, ERIH, etc. or in books or chapters of scientific books);
- papers presented to an international scientific assembly.

The candidate will have to demonstrate their ability to manage research projects (particularly dissertations) in relation to the teaching load. To do so, they will have to provide a description of a study they intend to conduct (theoretical framework, hypotheses, and method). The plan should not exceed one page.
Selection procedure
Evaluations of candidates will take into account teaching experience in the university setting. During the interview, the candidate should prepare a public lecture (1/2 hour), open to academic and scientific members of the Faculty, in order to evaluate their teaching qualities.

Our institutional policy is based on diversity and equal opportunities. We select candidates on the basis of their qualities regardless of age, sexual orientation, origin, beliefs, disability or nationality.

Applications
Applicants are requested to submit their applications electronically, to the following address: Postesacademiques@uliege.be with a copy to Ms. Cindy Minconetti - C.Minconetti@uliege.be no later than 15 February 2022.
